GLOBAL REAL ESTATE

An acre at the end of a quiet street, and a house already finished.

MARKETING STRATEGY

PREPARED SEPTEMBER 2026

APERTUREGLOBAL.COM

The house is finished. The buyer is close by.

Your home is not advertised everywhere. It is advertised where it matters. A house of this kind — five bedrooms and about 3,800 square feet on more than an acre, at the end of a West Meade cul-de-sac, taken back to the studs in 2022 and rebuilt — is bought by a family already living in and around Nashville who need more room, more quiet, and a house they do not have to renovate. That family is the first audience. The second is smaller: households moving to Nashville from elsewhere who want an established neighbourhood rather than a new one. The campaign is built in two parts so each is approached on its own terms.

TWO AUDIENCES

One campaign across Nashville, one for families moving to it.

CHOSEN MARKETS

Five markets, weighted heavily toward Middle Tennessee.

TAILORED CREATIVE

Six advertisements built for this house, in six shapes, for every screen.

REPORTED TO YOU

A full account of where your home appeared and how buyers responded.

DAYS

Over thirty days your home will be advertised in five markets, most of the effort inside Middle Tennessee. Six advertisements have been built for it, in six shapes, each a slow pass over the elevation, the kitchen, the vaulted rooms and the acre behind them, closing on the address and an invitation to arrange a viewing.

ONE FIGURE TO FOLLOW

The plan set out here is settled. The one figure still to come is the number of impressions — the number of times your home is put in front of someone — which is confirmed once the campaign is under way.

In Nashville, and on the way to it.

The two run side by side, on the same dates, as a single effort. The larger one reaches families already living around Nashville; the smaller reaches those arriving from elsewhere. They do not overlap, so the same buyer is not shown your home twice.

The right buyers already live close to home.

The greater part of the campaign stays in the Nashville metropolitan area, across Davidson, Williamson, Sumner, Wilson and Rutherford counties. That is deliberate. A family moving up to five bedrooms and an acre in West Meade is almost always moving from a smaller house nearby: they already know the schools, the drive downtown, and what an established street is worth. The remaining effort goes to four cities — Chicago, Dallas, Atlanta and Los Angeles — that send households to Nashville in steady numbers, and where a finished house on a private acre reads as good value rather than an extravagance. A wider national footprint would be the wrong shape for this home, and it is not used.

The work, as buyers will see it.

Six advertisements, in six shapes, built for the computer, the tablet and the telephone. Each moves slowly across photographs of the house over fifteen seconds, then closes on the address and an invitation to arrange a viewing. The price is not shown, as is our practice.

In the order it will happen.

Nothing here waits on a decision from you. The advertisements are built and the markets are chosen; what follows is the sequence from here to the report that lands on your desk at the end.
